Notes

- Luke 22:20 - "This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you." This makes reference to the old testament, or covenant, that was made with the Israelites by Moses. After declaring the covenant, Moses took the blood of a sacrifice and sprinkled it on the people. Christ is now presenting a new covenant, and the ordinance that is related is the sacrament, where we drink the "blood" of Christ.
- Matthew 25:1-13 - As Christ is talking about the Second Coming, he tells a parable, the parable of the Ten Virgins. The virgins are evidently members of the church, as they know about the marriage. They all had plenty of time to get ready, to trim their lamps, and to get enough oil. They had so much time, they were even able to sleep! And yet, the five foolish virgins weren't ready when the time came. Because of that they lost the opportunity to join in the feast.
- Luke 22:10-13 - It's quite amazing how Christ just has to speak and it's done. He knows exactly where to find what he needs, including a room for the passover. I wish that I could do that... But on a more serious note, we know that Christ doesn't just use his power on a whim. He has a purpose for everything that he does. Thus, this feast was obviously very important. It was the moment during which Christ established the new covenant that was about to come to pass. He prepared his disciples with a new ordinance that they should perform in place of the old one to remind them of the new covenant.
